Rough House In the House of Commons Caused by Expulsion of Ten Irish Members

POLICE CALLED IN TODAY

The Entire Force Was Mobilized Today in Anticipation of Further Trouble.

THE EARLY SESSION WAS QUIET

London, March 6.—The entire police force has been mobilized anticipating further disturbances in the house of commons following last night's unexampled scenes of disorder when ten Irish members were expelled for disobeying the speaker's orders. The early session today, however, has been quiet.

WON'T ACCEPT OFFICE.

London, March 6.—At a meeting of Irish Nationalists this afternoon, at which John Redmond presided, a resolution was passed to the effect that it was inconsistent and improper for any member of the party to accept influence, direct or indirect, to obtain government situations or appointments of any kind for any person.

BIG MELTING.

LOUISVILLE DENOUNCES REIGN OF LAW AND DISORDER.

Louisville, Ky., March 6.—The mass meeting last night condemning gambling and the riot of lawless men and disorder was a monster affair. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the condition of affairs and calling for a speedy remedy. The meeting was composed of the best people in the metropolis and will undoubtedly be fruitful of good results.

NEW AGENT

MR. LARGERWALL ARRIVES THIS AFTERNOON AS AGENT FOR THE AMERICAN.

Mr. Largerwall, assistant agent for the American Express company at Memphis, Tenn., has been appointed agent here to succeed Mr. A. A. Ulrich, transferred to Jackson, Tenn. He will arrive today some time and be checked in by Route Agent Abbott, who has been in charge of the office since Mr. Ulrich left.

SUICIDE.

PROMINENT MAN TAKES HIS LIFE AT WEST LIBERTY.

West Liberty, March 6.—John Sebastian, one of the most prominent young men in the county, committed suicide here today. A pistol was the method. No cause for the rash deed is known.

According to reports from Columbus the war in progress in that country is characterized by brutality on both sides.

The Duke of Abruzzi's search expedition left Sanitford for Franz Josef land.

Reports that Gen. Horace Porter will relinquish his post as United States ambassador to France are denied.

Robert Leo Cole Steals Two Diamond Rings and Is Arrested for It.

BELONG TO MRS. CALLISSI

Accused Comes From a Prominent Georgia Family—Pawed Them for Twenty Dollars.

OTHER NEWS OF THE POLICE COURT

Robert Leo Cole, a young harness-maker, who has been working at Michael Brothers and going by the name of Harry Miller, was arrested late last evening by Officers Tom Orr and Tom Potter on a charge of grand larceny. He is charged with stealing two diamond rings and one gold ring belonging to Mrs. R. O. Callissi and her daughter, Miss Sylvia, and a solid gold ring belonging to Mrs. Callissi. He had been boarding at the Callissi house, in Little's addition, and the rings were not missed until several days ago.

They were pawed by Cole, alias Miller, to Mr. Henry Foreman, bartender at Chas. Graham's at Ninth and Court, for $11 and $9 respectively. After some excellent detective work the ownership of the pawned rings was established, and Cole was arrested. He is about 30 years old, and appears to be "nifty," to use a popular expression. He claims to the police that he had for some time past had been a "dope" fiend.

He said his father was Wm. Cole, assistant postmaster at Atlanta, Ga., and that on account of his conduct early in life he had been sent to the reform school at Cadiz, Ga., where he escaped three years ago, after learning the harness trade.

He came here three months ago from Memphis. He has the audacity to intimate to the police that in his wanderings he has committed many a crime which will never be known because he has been too shrewd to leave any clue. He took the name Miller because his mother was formerly a Miss Miller.

Cole appears to be a well bred young fellow, but does not look bright, and had never about the boarding house been credited with any too much intelligence.

The plain gold ring was turned over to the police by a gentleman named Poole, to whom Cole had loaned it. The case was called in Judge Sanders' court this morning and on motion of Major Josiah Harris, was continued until Saturday. The young man's father and brother, of Atlanta, have been telegraphed. His bond is fixed at $500.

James Jones, a young man of near 100 years, Graves county, was arrested last night by Officers Singery and Gontier for attempting to clean out Mount's saloon. He got mad because the "Tom and Jerry" was all out. He did not seem to remember much that happened and claimed that a young man named Bruce, who was with him, did all the swearing. He was let off with a $1 fine.

Thomas Farless, who is a frequent worshiper at Judge Sanders' shrine, pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly and was let down light, being fined only $5 and costs. He went into Detail's, and after buying a drink he walked out telling the bartender to collect as best he could. He informed the court this morning that he had the money but left it at home. He lives in Graves county.

Geo. Ayers was fined $1 and costs for a plain drunk, also J. McNeal.

CATTLE TRAIN.

SPECIAL GOES OVER THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL THIS MORNING.

Special trains of officials frequently pass over railroads, but it is seldom a special train of cattle goes over the rails. The Illinois Central had a cattle special this morning at 3:40 from Decatur to Louisville. There were twenty-three cars loaded in charge of Conductor McCann, the largest cattle train to go through Paducah in some time.

THE WEATHER.

The forecast for tomorrow is for continued fair, but colder weather.

BODY FOUND.

Paducah, Ky., March 6.—The body of Howard Rogers, the Illinois Central fireman, who has been missing for the past week, was found in a ditch near the railroad bridge. The theory is that Rogers lost his balance in some way as the train was crossing the bridge, and fell headlong into the water. He was not missed until the train had gone some distance beyond the bridge. Failing to find him, the supposition that he had fallen into the river was accepted and a search instituted. Rogers' body was found by Claim Agent W. F. McCarley, of Jackson. The remains were taken to Water Valley, Miss.

WARRANT DISMISSED.

A warrant against Mate J. T. Barnes, of the Dick Fowler, for striking Mate Lee, a "coke fiend" who was working on the boat, was dismissed. The evidence showed the mate pushed Lee, who had his hand in his pocket, "because he could walk better that way," and the negro felt against an anvil.

Charles Johnson, a colored runner on the City of Clifton, was arrested this afternoon by Officers Harlan, Hart and Menifee for obtaining money by false pretenses. This morning Johnson called for the money, representing it was his, and it was given to him.

NO BEGGAR.

MAYOR LANG CATCHES A TARTAR AND IS OBLIGED TO GET AWAY.

Mayor Lang comes in contact with a great many kinds of people, but one of the most remarkable mendicants who ever sought assistance from the city's chief executive, dropped into his office a day or two ago. He was a typical Dutchman, fairly well dressed, and prefaced his remarks by saying: "Meester Mayor, I'm no beggar!" He explained he wanted to go to Cairo and had walked all the way to Paducah from Fulton, thinking he couldn't get to Cairo without going through Paducah. "Dese Tutchmen in Paducah sees no Tutchman," he declared. "I goes to dem and asks for helth, and dey says, go do de mayor! They are no Tutchmen!" He talked a blue streak for at least fifteen minutes and Mayor Lang would have given him three passes to Cairo to have stopped the flow of banalities. When given the transportation the old fellow, in his hearty, sincere gratitude, said "Cool vill pless you, God vill pless you!" He put his arm around the mayor's neck and said "I vill come back and talk some more veld you," asked the mayor for his walking stick. "Yes, take it along, said, the mayor, who would have given his visitor anything he wanted to get rid of him.

Col. Scott and Major Harrison of St. Louis, Interested Parties, in the City.

DEVELOPMENTS ARE EXPECTED SOON

The iron furnace on South Third street, it is given out on good authority, is to be started again as soon as the bankruptcy proceedings of the Kentucky Furnace company, which operated it under lease for a short time last summer and fall, are settled. Major John W. Harrison, the St. Louis millionaire, and Col. T. J. Scott, well known in Paducah, arrived yesterday from St. Louis on business, but it is authoritatively said neither will operate the furnace. Col. Harrison is interested in it, being one of the owners, and furnished some of the material used when it was recently operated. The business of the big St. Louis capitalists has not been made public, but it means considerable to Paducah, and interesting developments are expected in a few days.

Hoosevelt Stops an Outburst of Enthusiasm From the Galleries.

RIDES IN A SHABBY HACK

Instead of the Handsome Carriage Placed at His Disposal By Relatives.

ORDINARY CAB GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM

Washington, March 6.—Mr. Roosevelt will preside. There is no doubt about that. In the senate today the galleries, at the first opportunity, started a demonstration when the vice president rapped for order and said it must be had. He threatened to call in the sergeant-at-arms if any infractions were made.

Washington, March 6.—Vice President Roosevelt is the guest of his brother-in-law, Commander Covels, U. S. N. This gentleman is well-to-do, and has in his stable coaches, carriages, light vehicles, etc., with horses, groom, coachmen and all the trappings of a first-class equipment. The Roosevelt children and his have been taking advantage of these "conveniences" all week. When Mr. Roosevelt rode to the capitol in the presence of the multitude and the assembled correspondents it was in an old shabby hack, for which he paid $3 or $4.

He did not use any of the fine equipages of his sister. He discarded his campaign rough rider hat for the moment and was under a top hat of silk. A two-year-old child of James Kells, of Grant county, was perhaps fatally burned. The American Cattle Growers' association is holding a convention at Denver.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1901.

OUR CHILDISH GOVERNOR.

That part of the state press which is not too biased to be honest with principles is scoring Gov. Beekham's action in pardoning gambler Alvey and his associates, severely, yet justly. His very childish reasons for an act so unbecomingly in view of the right of appeal of the convicted men and the certain vindication if unjustly convicted, are held up in a most unenviable light, but by no paper more caustically than by the court in which the conviction occurred. That part of the Louisville press not owned by and for the gang has so long disgraced the Metropolis and the state, separately and jointly, has fairly skinned the governor for his almost criminal act, of course, and The Sun does not quote them. But an article from the Lexington Herald is so soundly put that it is given place as a terse review of the fact and criticism of the governor's pardon, that it is given place. Says the Herald:

"Under the present constitution the governor is required to give some reason for a pardon; this requirement has brought trouble upon the present acting governor. He has permitted to go upon record certain alleged 'reasons' for the pardon of the Louisville gambler Alvey, and these 'reasons' have been made public and are submitted to criticism and answer."

"Alvey was convicted at 4 p. m.; he was pardoned at Frankfort at 9 a. m. the next morning. It is charged that there was a plan concocted by the defense by which certain employees of Alvey were to turn state evidence, swear that they had not been promised immunity; and then make affidavit that they had been promised immunity but swore otherwise at the procurement of the prosecution with the knowledge of the court; upon which the governor was to issue pardon; and it is further charged that his 'reasons' were already written out for him ready for his prearranged signature; and in these 'reasons' were attacks upon R. C. Kluckner—whom the governor is said to hate because of his part as counsel in various cases—and again Judge Barker, who is obnoxious to a certain element in the Democratic organization. How much of truth is in these charges we know not. Certainly the documents upon which the pardon was based are very voluminous and carefully prepared to have been determined upon and prepared after the verdict at 4 p. m. and before the departure of the O. and O. at 6 p. m.; who dictated them and the stenographer and typewriter who wrote them on deserve full praise as the fastest on record."

"Mr. Kinkaid has made two statements—one in writing as to the facts and one in his place as attorney to the court. He has denounced the statements in the affidavits as false and pointed out that the affidavits confessed perjury and the pardon granted upon statements made by men who admit that they swore falsely on the witness stand; he also denounces the statements made by the governor as false; and he asked the appointment of a committee of lawyers to investigate the matter. This motion the court granted and appointed Thomas W. Bullitt, Charles B. Seymour, James B. Pirle, Francis B. Strauss, Overton Harris and R. C. Davis; all are Democrats—Bullitt, Harris and Davis were confederate soldiers. Pirle, Harris and perhaps Seymour have been upon the bench. It is an able, upright and courageous committee of gentlemen and will go as far as it may have the power. Unpleasant intimations are given out that the counsel for defense may be put upon defense before the investigation is ended."

"The governor in his 'reasons' made a violent assault upon the judicial integrity and conduct of Judge Barker, and Judge Barker made his response in the form of a statement to the grand jury, and it is an able, strong and dangerous response. It demonstrates that the 'reasons' are without foundation and that the governor could have known they were false from the records of the court. He shows that the rival gambler was actually under indictment and the indictments pending trial; that Alvey was guilty and confessed his guilt; that the verdict establishing his guilt was unbroken and uncontradicted. And further that three years ago he was under indictment and placed on record a solemn promise not to violate the law again, and upon that promise the indictments were dismissed and he had openly and shamelessly broken that promise. This response has put the governor in the most awkward situation; it answers and refutes every one of the so-called 'reasons.' It shows: 1st, That the affidavit upon which the pardon was based was made by men confessedly perjurers; 2nd, that no bargain or trade had been made by which immunity was promised and those statements were false; 3rd, that Weinhold was under indictment and his trial coming on, and that the governor by the delay of a very few days would see that no impartiality would be shown in that court; and no discrimination made between indicted offenders; 4th, that Alvey was guilty and the evidence against him truthful and therefore the verdict against him was just and proper; 5th, that the personal assault upon him was untruthful, and 6th, that he had no control over the judicial department and his criticism was unimportant."

"As we read the response of Judge Barker on reply for the governor grew. And it has occurred to us that it might be judicious if we would send for our friend Governor McCreary to come and receive guardianship over him. Governor McCreary would never have had such 'reasons' spread upon the executive journals."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

ly local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars to any case of deafness, caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE SUN'S DAILY STORY.

ROMANCE OF A SLEIGH RIDE.

By G. H. HOWARD. Copyright, 1901, by the Daily Story Pub. Co.

It was the universal sentiment of the country side that Nancy Simmons was the belle of Valley Edge, a village in which every girl was pretty. This Mary Sykes was a close second in the estimation of some; Tiny Colson in the opinion of others, and so on. But aggregating beauty of face, form and character, and taking a dispassionate survey of all the girls of Valley Edge, but one general conclusion could be reached—Nancy Simmons was not simply the belle, but the favorite of Valley Edge.

Nothing could be more faultless than the pink and white of her complexion, purer hazel than her eyes, more symmetrical than her form or bewitching than her mouth. But if those charms called for the surrender of judgment in her favor, her smile, her voice, her laugh captivated and held prisoner all brought within her realm. Ever smiling or singing or laughing, she was sunlight, music and mirth—a trio of fascination.

Of course she had a lover—several in fact. But John Pearson—so gossip said—was the favored one. And gossip for once was right; but it did not, in this case, know all. For not only was John Pearson favored, but he had been accepted; and they were only waiting until the mortgage of four hundred dollars on John's ten-acre field down the valley could be taken up, and his young peach trees on the mountainside should bear, and the store he had recently started should pay a little better. Then they would get married. For John had an old mother to look out for, and was helping to educate a brother who wanted to be a preacher. Otherwise he could have married two years ago.

Of late, Nancy had thought—merely suspected—John was somewhat reserved, constrained in his manner towards her. "But poor, dear fellow," said she, "he is so disappointed at the way things are going, and he wants to marry me so much—and doesn't like to wait. But times will soon be better, and then he shall be happy."

So one evening, when the snow was beating against Nancy's cottage window, and the old father and mother were sound asleep, Nancy, who was waiting for somebody, after poking the log fire into a cheerful blaze, went to the window and drew the curtains aside.

"Gracious!" she exclaimed, "what a night. Will it never stop snowing? I'm glad I'm not out sleighing tonight—though everybody else is. I'd rather be home—especially as John's soon to be here. Poor boy! It's hard to expect him out such a night. But he won't get lost in the drift of the snow."

"Good morning, Nancy," came from John in his cheery, hearty voice. "Good morning, Mr. Pearson!" "Mr. Pearson," listen to Nancy! O—O—O! isn't that sublime?" laughed Tiny Colson, who had returned the wink with a broad grin thrown in.

Now Nancy stood with a red face and a quivering lip, and with a mystified air.

"Come, come, Nancy," said John, laughing; "don't be angry. Tiny has something to tell you—haven't you, Tiny?"

"Help us to get married!" she gasped. "What do you mean, Tiny?" "Simply that as Uncle Tom sent me a thousand dollars, John and I want to see him last night, and I asked him whether I might lend John four hundred to take up the mortgage until the store pays. That's all."

Nancy said nothing, but threw herself on Tiny's neck. "And what did he say?" she asked between her sobs.

"Why Uncle Tom said I was a tramp, but that there was no need of that; for as he'd known you and John all your lives, he'd give you four hundred dollars, Nancy, for a wedding present. So you and John may get married at once—unless," she added slyly, "before you do you and he would like to stand for me and Tom Bradley."

But this arrangement couldn't be made, for three months later, when the lilac blossoms began to put out in the yards along the village street, there was a double wedding at the old church at Valley Edge; and John's mother, just deceased, had preached, of course.

The Advantages of Being A Country Boy.

By John W. Wainwright, President David H. Jordan, of Indiana State University, President Charles F. Tilling, of Western Reserve University, Bishop Boyd Vincent, Late Governor Mount, of Indiana, and Jesse A. Fowler.

Copyright, 1901, The Christian Herald, New York.

FACE TO FACE WITH NATURE

By Rev. Boyd Vincent, P. E. Bishop
So. Ohio.

The dweller in the country is brought more constantly face to face with God in nature than the dweller in town can ever be. "In the cities," said Sydney Smith, "all is man's work apparently—we see only Caesar and his power. In the country God's hand is seen oftener, and closer too." The townsman's business leads him to deal chiefly with secular causes. His own human shrewdness and skill are the things he constantly depends on for success; so that he comes finally to feel as if his own comfort and happiness depended on himself. In the markets and in the office, he handles by the wholesale all the great natural food products, clothing and the materials of wood and stone out of which houses are built. They all mean to him only so many thousands of dollars. In his business mind and processes God is left out of the account altogether. Of course, if we were to stop and think back a little, he would see that he could not put even a bite of bread into his own mouth unless God had first caused the seed to spring and the wheat and corn to grow. He couldn't put a coat on his back or that of his children if God had not first created the sheep with the wool on its back. He couldn't put shoes on his feet except for the hide of the cattle nor build his house unless God had first provided the forest and the stone quarries. So with all the philosophy and sciences with which the city dweller is so much occupied.

The dweller in the country, if he is a thoughtful and earnest man at all, is a devoutly religious man. He lives face to face with God in God's direct work in nature. He sees God as the primary cause of all those things which sustain human and animal life and which make the world beautiful. All these facts appeal directly to his own primary instincts of truth; they go to his heart as well as his head; and he does not have to go through a long, roundabout process of reasoning to get to the right conclusion.

The farmer's Sunday, if he is a religious man at all, is a better Sunday than the city man's. It is more completely the Lord's day. In the city even on Sunday, the business houses, if they are not open, are still forever before your eyes, suggesting man's business and not "the Father's business." Streets are crowded with people, street cars and railroad trains are running; saloons and theaters and dance halls and billiard halls are wide open; baseball or football games, horse races and prize fights go on; men must have their Sunday business letters. No wonder the city man has to fight hard to keep his religion, and above all, the Lord's day, as he ought to. But the farmer, even the most worldly, seldom thinks of working on Sunday, after the necessary chore are done. Other things will let him alone if he will let them alone. He can go to church if he wants to. And when he gets there, he hears a simple sermon which he can understand, takes part in a simple worship which he can follow, meets only familiar friends and neighbors instead of a lot of after strangers, get some good in this way out of the service; and if he has to talk a bit outside, after church, it is still about weather and crops and stock, with which God has still something to do.

NATURAL LIFE MEANS HEALTH

By Jesse A. Fowler, Scientist, New York.

The country boy has a much better chance to make his way, in the world if he is brought up surrounded by the country fields, the woody glens and the riverbanks. He has a chance, and a better chance, than the city boy to develop his lung powers, and his circulation is increased, his sleep is sounder, his opportunities to live a natural life are greater, and he is not surrounded by the same temptations that multiply about the city lad.

He is brought up largely upon eggs, milk, grains, fruit and vegetables, and consequently has a much better physique and a more enduring constitution, and more robust health to start the battle of life than the city lad.

The latter is surrounded by evening excitement, late hours, social enticements, evening studies and irregular and unsteady sleep. The atmosphere is often too hot or too cold for health, and generally less pure than that enjoyed by the country lad. The diet of the city boy is largely made up of highly seasoned and rich food, of meats that are stimulating, of sweets that are clogging to the system, and often stimulants in the form of tea, coffee, and unfortunately beer and wines are added to the list, while in a social way the city lad is allowed to smoke, and sees the example set him by hundreds of other lads who contract the same habit. Thus, taking him all in all, the country lad has a better start in life than the city lad, although on first examination of the subject one would think that the city lad had more opportunities to develop his intellect. Even if this is the case, he has not such a fine preparation from a physical standpoint as his brother in the country. By using the brains too early in life he simply unfit it for its grand performance of mental duties in after life. There must, therefore, be a proper preparation for the years of intense mental labor that are to follow, hence the physical constitution calls for and demands healthy surroundings to start with.

PADUCAH: Concerning News of a Local Nature for Past Week.

From Saturday's Daily.

The Paducah Street railway today added another car to its Rowlandtown line, making four in the service. This now runs to the union depot every ten minutes, and the public will greatly appreciate the additional service.

County Judge Tully has issued a rule against the Citizens' Building and Loan company to appear in court and show cause why it should not be fined for contempt for not obeying the former rule ordering it to file an inventory.

A similar rule was issued against Mr. T. J. Floarney, the assignee, for failing to file schedule of assets and liabilities.

Thursday at the residence of Mr. T. J. Ward, near Smithland, a double wedding occurred. Rev. J. S. Miller officiating. Mr. Loren Gray and Miss Ada Ward and Mr. Earl Wheeler and Miss Mamie Ward were the happy couples united for life. The brides are the charming daughters of Mr. T. J. Ward and the young men are industrious young farmers.

Mrs. Mary Frank, widow of the late Dr. R. F. Frank, of South Ninth street, and Mr. Wm. Chesterfield, the coal dealer, were married at Metropolitan, Ill., yesterday afternoon, returning at 4 p. m.

A lively contest is on in Marshall county for jailer. The candidates for the Democratic nomination are: F.

M. Smith, J. M. Johnson, C. W. Eley, Lee C. Wyatt, J. A. McDaniel and T. M. Pullum.

One of the candidates, Mr. Johnson, is out in a Benton paper in a lengthy card refuting the somewhat unusual insinuation made against him, that he got his start in life in the "green goods" business. He said he made it raising tobacco, and offers $50 reward for any proof that he ever passed a single counterfeit dollar in his life.

It is now up to the "mad slingers" who are alleged to have been trading Mr. Johnson, and the band plays on as the eager public awaits their action.

The Deering Harvesting company, of Chicago, has decided to take no appeal in its suit against Ferguson, Palmer & Co., the local mill men, for $20,000 damages. The case was decided in favor of the defendants at the present term of court, and a motion for a new trial was overruled and an appeal asked and granted. The plaintiffs now decide to abandon the contest, however, and all the costs in the case have been paid.

An order was today made for County Clerk Graham to pay to the trustee of the jury fund $1,000.

Messrs. B. Weille & Sons, who have for the past several weeks been figuring on a pants factory, have now completed arrangements to establish the enterprise here and have it in operation within four or six weeks. The site has not been chosen, and it has not been decided whether a building will be rented or a new one erected, but in either event the factory will be running in about a month in order to prepare for the fall trade.

About forty machines will be run, and there will be employed fifty or more people. Nothing but pants will be made, and a large force of Sail lase at John Blacks Sunday.

See' we wined you, some of these days this hole town will burn, then who is to blame? No protection and money in the treasury. The peoples money.

Mrs. Lucy Lynn, of the Lynn Hotel, happened to a very painful accident last Sunday evening while assisting in putting out a fire which had broken out in J. W. Black's Wood house, she tripped and fell, dislocating her shoulder.

The Great Springs paper tells this one: "In some manner learning of a cannal factory to be established at Crawl a man from Alexander county came to town a foot on horse back to see the thing getting the words cannal and canon factory confound. On being told by an obliging doctor that it was not yet in practical operation remarked that he couldn't see the use of building a canon factory now as the war was over but maybe the folks of Crawl hadn't heard about it and thought he would ride up here and tell them about it as he had just got the news from Cairo. If there is anything you want to know inquire of any man from Alexander county that has a horse."

The tramp of poverty is evidently pretty well developed on a certain vommster whose name is a cantileta. The other day he came in with a quantity of cyphered papers as follows:

"Net fer —, the Pire Man's friend!"

"Well, Jimmie what are you going to do with it?" he was asked.

"Oh," nonchalantly replied the diminutive politician "I'll put out on Court street where all the men get."

Yesterday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch contained another sketch of Ellis Glenn's life history. She is the woman arrested here by Lookup Kreyer Menifee about two years ago on a charge of forgery, and taken to Parkersburg, West Va. She was then masquerading as a man, and had been residing at a house on Court street, near the city hall and working at the collar factory. She has never yet been convicted, however, of the charge of forgery, and the case is again before the West Virginia courts. It is thought she may be acquitted, as it is almost impossible to identify her as the one who committed forgery, and she still clings tenaciously to the improbable story that she has a twin brother. She is quite a marvel to the police department, who admit that she has almost completely baffled them at every turn.

A Grand jury, Kansas, physician recently sent to the address of one of his patients a bill for professional services, and within ten days received two following letter, written on the back of his memorandum: "Dear Sir this note was put in my box by mistake I don't want to see you and I don't want any relation of mine anyway. I don't see how you can condemn will let you die the deal. Why don't you live a better relation live and let live and try to meet that man who died in heaven which is worth more than forty dollars to any doctor."

The other night a certain popular railroad man fell in with a crowd of sentimental friends and when he at length became fully alive to the amount of time that had elapsed since he last saw his patient wife, it was a m. So he hurried home, wishing at every step that some robust friend of every mankind were behind him kicking him at every step for being the biggest fool in town. But no such "friend" was along to do the kicking act, so he began to try to devise some plausible excuse to offer his wife when he reached the portals of his peaceful mansion. He found her cuttingly sarcastic when he knocked for admission.

"Who's there?" she demanded.

"It's me, Mary," he softly replied.

"Who's me?" She was not to be thus pleased.

"Why, James, of course."

"James who?"

"James —, your husband. Let me in."

"How old are you?"

"Fifty."

"Where were you married?"

He told her.

"What was your wife's name?"

This also he imparted. Still she wasn't satisfied.

"Say 'ehreanthemmn' two times," she demanded.

He said it six.

"Now blow your breath through the key hole."

He did as ordered and she was convinced. The key turned in the lock and he was admitted to his own home — and was mighty glad to get in, too.

WAS CONSCIENCE STRICKEN.

A girl who beat a Chicago transportation company out of two fares some years ago has just remitted 10 cents from Boston, where she now resides. On two occasions she got into a car and alighted before the conductor got around to her. At the time she thought she was 10 cents ahead, but the years rolled around the dime kept growing in size until it seemed to her that if the company had the sum it could ballast its right of way, buy new cars and increase the president's salary. At last she determined to make restitution so that she might have some nights of restful sleep once more. Her case is not exactly a typical one. There are some people who cannot rest well at night unless they have kept the street car company out of a fare during the day. They consider it an act of virtue, and it brings the satisfaction that comes to other men from relieving the sufferings of the widows and orphans or from getting their names in the paper as possible candidates for alderman.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE AT METROPOLIS.

The Metropolis Herald says: "A couple gentlemen from Paducah were in the city Friday and attended the meeting of the Business Men's Association that evening, with a view to interesting the association and through it the farmers of Massac county in the cultivation of tobacco. The gentlemen propose to establish a warehouse here for rehauling tobacco."

IS ACTING CHAIRMAN.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Major James H. Ashcraft, of Paducah, Ky., member of the Shiloh Battle Field Park Commission, acts as chairman in place of Colonel Cornelius Gellie, who left yesterday with friends for an European trip. Major Ashcraft will be at the Grand during some of his incumbency as chairman."

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Frank Faughn, aged 15, son of Thomas Faughn, and Willie Lynn, son of Cheatum Lynn, who live across the line in Pope county, a few miles from Metropolis, started hunting Saturday. The Lynn boy's gun was struck while crossing a creek and went off, the lead penetrating young Faughn's breast, killing him instantly. The verdict of the jury was accidental death.

FRENCH STYLE.

Paris, March 5.—John Wilson Durandt, New Yorker, was killed in a duel today by a Russian count at Ostend. It is alleged that Durandt killed a nephew of the count's in a bar room quarrel.

"CROWN" SALARIES.

THEY VARY, BUT GENERALLY ARE QUITE "HEALTHY."

The president of the Swiss republic, who holds office for only one year, gets the smallest salary of any ruler in Europe. His compensation is $3,050 per annum.

The president of the French republic gets $250,000 a year, just five times what our president receives, and holds his office for seven years. Besides, he has country houses, steam yachts, private cars, game preserves, and other luxuries maintained for him at the expense of the state.

Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, gets about $2,000,000 a year from the Austrian exchequer, and as much from Hungary, but he has to maintain a lot of court theaters and operas, and if it were not for the private fortune of the house of Hapsburg, which is large, would have trouble to make both ends meet.

King Victor Emmanuel gets $3,000,000 a year, a great share of which is spent in keeping up the palaces of the various little royalties that have been absorbed by the kingdom of Italy.

Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, gets as king of Prussia, $3,000,000 a year, but the private fortunes of the Hohenzollern family, which belong to him, are large.

The young King Alfonso, of Spain, has an allowance of $1,500,000 a year. His mother, the queen regent, has a jointure of $50,000 a year and a large fortune inherited from her uncle, while the princess of the Asturias, who married last week, has an allowance from the state of $100,000 a year, and her sister one of $50,000.

The czar has $4,000,000 a year from the national revenues, and an immense private fortune.

King Leopold, of Belgium, has $700,000 a year, besides his profits from the Congo deal.

The king of Portugal is rather poor, having only $300,000 a year, but his queen has $100,000 a year from her private fortune.

The young queen of Holland draws $300,000 a year from the national exchequer, but has one of the largest private fortunes in Europe.

King George, of Greece, gets $250,000 a year, toward which Great Britain, France and Russia have each contributed $20,000 annually since 1863.

The kings of Denmark and of Sweden and Norway each gets $500,000 a year.

A NOVELTY.

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL WILL TEACH FARMERS HOW TO BUILD GOOD ROADS.

About the middle of this month the Illinois Central will send out a special train, consisting of eight or nine cars, from New Orleans to Chicago. It will contain machinery for the building of modern wagon roads. It will make stops along the line and the crew will show the farmers how to build good roads. Advance agents will go ahead of the train and work up news meetings at specified points, interesting farmers in the coming of the train. The National Good Roads association will co-operate with the Illinois Central. This is the first time anything of this kind has been attempted in America.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

President McKinley's inaugural address was a modest statement of the glorious events of his first administration with a very clear and concise outline of his policy for the future as to the two great questions which now confront the nation as a legacy of the late war—the Cuban and Philippine questions. Although the war has been closed barely three years yet the government has been enabled to make a very large reduction in the war tax. The country is enjoying the greatest of prosperity and the will of the people as evidenced by the election of 1896 has been very largely executed.

"But fortunate as our condition is," says the president, "its permanence can only be assured by sound business methods and strict economy in national administration and legislation. We should not permit our great prosperity to lead us to reckless ventures in business or profligacy in public expenditure."

While the president did all that could be done honorably to avert the Spanish-American war, it becomes inevitable. But it "imposed on us obligations from which we cannot escape and from which it would be dishonorable to seek to escape."

The president rejoices that sectional lines have been wiped out; that "sectionalism has disappeared," and that "division on public questions can no longer be traced to the war maps of 1861."

The address shows unbounded faith in the "capacity, integrity and high purposes of the American people."

"Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not slumber under tropic suns in distant seas."

"The American people, intrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others."

As to the Cuban question the president's utterance should satisfy the most bitter partisan of Cuban freedom. He says:

"The peace which we are pledged to leave to the Cuban people must

MCKINLEY.

THIS GIVES PLENTY TIME.

The peace which we are pledged to leave to the Cuban people must carry with it the guarantee of permanence. We became sponsors for the pacification of the island, and we remain accountable to our own country and people, for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth on abiding foundations of right, justice, liberty and national order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall "be a reality, not a name; a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment bearing within itself the elements of failure."

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

We face at this moment a most important question—that of the future relations of the United States and Cuba. With our neighbors we must remain close friends. The declaration of the purposes of this government in the resolution of April 20, 1898, must be made good.

THE PHILIPPINES.

Our countrymen should not be deceived. We are not waging war against the inhabitants of the Philippine islands. A portion of them is making war against the United States.

FIGHTING TO GO ON.

The congress having added the sanction of its authority to the powers already possessed and exercised by the executive under the constitution, thereby leaving with the executive the responsibility for the government of the Philippines, I shall continue the efforts already begun until order shall be restored throughout the islands, and as fast as conditions permit will establish local governments, in the formation of which the full co-operation of the people has been already invited, and when established will encourage the people to administer them.

carry with it the guarantee of permanence. We became sponsors for the pacification of the island, and we remain accountable to the Cuban people, for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth, on abiding foundations of right, justice, liberty and national order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall "be a reality, not a name; a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment, bearing within itself the elements of failure."

As to the future of the Philippines, the president's statements are equally as clear and forcible. "We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions in the islands to the disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States. I shall continue the efforts already begun, until order shall be restored throughout the islands, and as fast as conditions permit will establish local governments, in the formation of which the full co-operation of the people has been already invited, and when established will encourage the people to administer them."

Before such a policy the ghost of imperialism will vanish into thin air.

A DOUBLE TRACK.

It is reported that Vice President J. T. Harahan, of the Illinois Central, announced while in New Orleans a few days since that during the coming spring the Illinois Central would double track its line between Jackson, Miss., and Crystal Springs, and it was probable the entire line from New Orleans to Jackson would be similarly treated. The business of the road has grown to enormous proportions during the last year, largely on account of the increased production of fruits and vegetables and the output of lumber from the Gulf.

Chicago, Ill., March 5.—Carter H. Harrison, for the third time, will lead the Democratic hosts in the mayoralty race this spring. He was nominated today amid great hurrahs and is almost certain of election, as the city is greatly displeased at the nomination of Judge Hanway to lead the Republicans. Hanway is the tool of Lorimer, a local boss, much disliked for his methods.

ILLINOIS MURDERER GETS 21 YEARS IN THE PEN.

Pekin, Ill., March 5.—Samuel Moser, convicted of murdering his wife and three children was today sentenced to 21 years in the penitentiary. The verdict is considered as a very light one.

Colonel Tom Campbell must have smiled a broad smile when he read the alleged reasons which Kentucky's embryonic statesman, who signs pardons for criminals and otherwise lives up to his ideal of what a governor should be and should do, gave for his action in pardoning the gambler Alvey.

McKinley and Roosevelt! That sounds natural.

ROOSEVELT.

HEAVY RESPONSIBILITIES.

Great privileges and great powers are ours, and heavy are the responsibilities that go with these privileges and these powers. Accordingly, as we do well or ill, so shall mankind in the future be raised or cast down. We belong to a young nation, already of giant strength, yet whose present strength is but a forecast of the power that is to come. We stand on a new continent, in a new hemisphere. East and West we look across the two great oceans toward the larger world life in which, whether we will or not, we must take an ever increasing share. And as, keen eyed, we gaze into the coming years, dates now and old rise thick and fast to confront us from within and without.

There is every reason why we should face these duties with a sober appreciation of their importance and of their difficulty. But there is also every reason for facing them with high-hearted resolution and eager and confident faith in our capacity to do them aright.

PROUD OF HIS HONOR.

A great work lies really in the hand of this generation; it should count itself happy indeed that to it is given the privilege of doing such work. A leading part therein must be taken by this, the angriest and powerful legislative body over which I have been called to preside. Most deeply do I appreciate the privilege of my position, for high, indeed, is the honor of presiding over the American senate at the outset of the Twentieth century.

VALUABLE TROPHY.

FRAGMENTS OF THE FIRST CHAPTER OF ST. MATTHEW FOUND.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 29.—The Rev. Dr. William C. Winslow, of this city, vice president of the Egypt exploration fund, today announced the discovery of a most valuable trophy among the large number of papyrus scrolls received by Dr. Winslow for distribution among several universities, twenty-nine of which went to the University of Pennsylvania. It is the oldest fragment of the gospels of the world now in this country. Dr. Winslow states that the papyrus contains a large part of the first chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew. It was found at Oxyrhynchus, 140 miles south of Cairo, near the famous "Logia" or "Sayings of Jesus," and its date is placed by some experts at 150 A.D., and by the editors of the society's publication at fifty or sixty years later.

This papyrus of St. Matthew belongs to the same class as the famous Sinaitic and Vatican Codices, and, of course, is a remarkable corroboration of these texts and the present accepted version. On an important doctrinal point it declares in common the exact language, "Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary for wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost." This papyrus is the oldest fragment of the Gospels, or, indeed, of the New Testament.

Dr. Winslow states that valuable papyrus of Homer, Thucydides and Enclid are also in the collection. The papyrus of Thucydides includes no less than chapters 36-41 of his fourth book, eight dates from the first century.

Very fortunate, too, says Dr. Winslow, is the University of Pennsylvania to possess a splendid papyrus of a large part of the fifth book of the Iliad in very good text. It dates back a little later than 200 A. D. The acoustation is full and somewhat unique.

The petition of Dionysia to the Prefect, dated 180 A. D., is a legal document of many pages, full of just such references to precedents introduced as one finds in a petition and argument to our supreme court of 1901. Dionysia claims her right to property conferred by her marriage contract, and to enjoy the income of it, without the interference of Chaermon, her father. A bit of Enclid of the third century illustrates proposition 3 of the second book, and papyrus 290 reveals the fact that private syndicates existed at 83 A. D., for it sets a row of a company of residents got together to do some banking in the village of Taxis. The banking of the Nile, not of funds, is meant, in order to keep their hands from being too much watered.

BODY FOUND

"Shorty" Sexton Committed Suicide By Jumping Into Island Creek.

MISSING FOR ONE MONTH

John Higgs, a Logger, Found the Body at the Foot of Elizabeth Street This Morning.

THE INQUEST HELD THIS AFTERNOON

From Tuesday's Daily.

The mystery of Charles Sexton's mysterious disappearance on Saturday night, February 3, was solved today, when his badly decomposed remains were found at the foot of Elizabeth street, just at the mouth of Island creek, about 9 o'clock this morning by John Higgs, an employee at the Ferguson-Palmer mill.

The body was floating among the logs, and Higgs was assisted in getting it out by Herman Isom and Geo. Hall, who were at work with him.

The remains were easily recognized as those of Sexton by the clothing watch chain, size, and general appearance. They evidently floated out of Island creek.

It seems that Sexton jumped into the creek, either from the bank near the foot of Third street, or from Island creek bridge.

Mrs. French Shoemaker remembers seeing him on the ear on the night he disappeared. He got off at Nunn's grocery, at Third and Broad, and went directly to the creek. He doubtless was then bent on self destruction.

Coroner Phelps held an inquest at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Nunn's undertaking establishment, the verdict being that he committed suicide by drowning. The remains were embalmed and will be kept until tomorrow. His brother in Amory, 215c, has been telegraphed, but not heard from. The funeral will probably take place tomorrow afternoon. Burial at Oak Grove.

Mr. Sexton disappeared February 3, four weeks ago Saturday. He had for some little time previous to that been suffering from mental aberration, and finally so frequently threatened to do violence to himself, he was incarcerated in the county jail.

At one time he attempted to throw himself from the second story window of a Broadway saloon, and was restrained only with great difficulty.

After remaining in jail a few days, he lay in a stupor for hours at a time, but finally seemed to completely recover his faculties, and was permitted to walk about.

His brother, Mr. Robert Sexton, of Amory, Miss., who had been here to look after him decided to take him home, and one Saturday night the patient disappeared, and the most exhaustive search failed to reveal any trace of his whereabouts.

His brother returned home, and there were various conjectures as to the missing man's actions. It was thought by some that he had carried out his threats to kill himself, while others believed he had been spirited away by designing persons for some unknown purpose.

He was "located" in half a dozen different cities, but in each instance the man proved to be other than "Shorty" Sexton, and his friends and relatives, after sending and receiving scores of telegrams and letters, gave up the search.

IN COLD BLOOD.

The English is a bitter enemy of the lobster.

It is probably news to the majority of people to know that the red or rock codfish is a bitter enemy of the lobster. It has just crawled out of its shell and in soft and feeble condition it has been seen in the water, where it is to be seen, or some days after shedding the lobster's armor and unable to cope with those fish that wage war upon them. This fact the codfish seems intuitively to know, and they will swim around these retreats in great numbers and strike them as they crawl out. An old lobster fisherman said that many times he had stopped his dory over a large number of these red codfish and watched their operations. He had even dropped his line down and dangled tempting bait within a few feet of them. It happened in fall directly in front of their noses, however, they would seldom take it, as they were after lobster meat. When the thin-shelled lobster would crawl out from beneath the protecting seaweed the codfish would dart at them and strike them down with their tails, drenching them completely. They would then fall to and devour the helpless crustaceans. This performance the lobster fisherman said he had witnessed many times. The shedding season is now practically over, and the shells of the lobsters are becoming firm and hard and they are fully able to take care of themselves.

PASSING OF THE STOCK.

The passing of the stock is typical of men's way of dressing here. When the stock was first worn by bledys riders, it was taken from the equitians of both sexes, who had always worn it on horseback. Men who wanted to be wearing the latest thing, whatever its propriety might be, began to put on the stock for all occasions. Consequently, shopkeepers tell their customers that the stock has "gone out," although there is no more reason why it should be out than that the collar should be. It is just as permanent an article of dress in its place as the collar. Well-dressed men the world over will wear stocks for riding and hunting, however utterly it may be "gone out" for the person who undertook to wear the stock at all times, under the impression that it was a smart successor to the collar. "One of the curious things about fashion here in dislocation to England," said a hard-basher who visits this country twice a year to a d. his wars. "In the states of old Americans, a 'style' of dress every year which must be the very newest thing in dress to attract their attention and seem worth their while. Now, in London the fashions for well-dressed men change very slowly. You never see a man walking about on a year with a stock that he has to his heels while it is scarcely long enough to reach his knees the next. We have none of these violent contrasts in styles that are regarded here as necessary to good dressing—New York Sun.

Up Against Appearances.

A stranger named Hamilton drifted into Loveland last Thursday evening, and announced that he thought he could run some. He thought he could run faster than any one in Loveland for $15, and it didn't take long for him to get action. The fellow looked like he might be a fair walker, but as a runner his stock was low. Our boys thought it would be just like finding money to have him run against Andrew Rose, and a match was made. Friday morning at 10 o'clock they had the race. The Thelma stranger with the clumsy appearance Thursday looked quite different when stripped for race, and at the crack of a pistol he was off like a deer. And he won $15 of good Loveland money on a 75-yard race. Loveland money on all prizes at dead ends and had won all prizes at Chryman on Frontier day—Loveland (Col.) Register.
